Software component for the management of machine data, maintenance assignments, manuals and documents maintain.ace.cockpit is the workplace of a maintenance expert for the online communication and the evaluation of maintenance data.

Through the maintain.ace.cockpit, all basic data of a machine is entered. Maintenance manuals and documents can be assigned to machines and machine parts, making them available to maintenance engineers. A maintenance assignment is created and accounted for in the maintain.ace.cockpit by assigning the machine parts to be serviced to maintenance personnel, including information about replacement parts.

For maintenance experts giving remote support for the service personnel in the field, maintain.ace.cockpit provides an optimal access point to the system. This enables a seamless flow of information between all specialists involved in the maintenance process.
